WAR WITH CHILI.

Considered the Natural Result of Blaine's Instructions.

The President's Change of Policy sent to Trescott.

Prompt and Decided Action Necessary to Avoid Trouble.

TRESCOTT'S NEW INSTRUCTION.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—There is still much concern felt by the president and the secretary of state over the immediate result of Trescott's action in South America. Up to yesterday no replies had been received from him acknowledging receipt of two telegrams of January 3d and 4th, which were dispatched by way of Europe and which were designated to show him that a complete change of policy had been adopted by the president. These telegrams were sent as most urgent matters and every precaution taken to insure their prompt forwarding and delivery. The days succeeding the sending of the telegrams were days of grave anxiety. At the end of four days no reply having been received the secretary of state sought a personal interview with the Chilian minister here to impress on him in an informal talk that the president had no policy regarding pending troubles between Chili and Peru, beyond a desire to exercise the good offices of the United States impartially and in the most friendly spirit toward both nations, and solely for the purpose of bringing about peace. Both the president and the secretary of state after carefully examining the instructions to Trescott was impressed with the belief that if they were executed in the temper in which they were written we were on the threshold of a war with Chili. They further believe that only by prompt and decided action could trouble be avoided. The conference with the Chilian minister was for the purpose of adding certainty to the desire of avoidance of the first stages of the trouble. The anxiety now is lest Trescott before he receive the new advices sent him may have taken some step under his first instruction which will lead to an open rupture of diplomatic relations. Such a result has been in some degree escaped, it is believed, by the wide publication by this government of the real motive of its purpose as shown in recent instructions and by the conference with the Chilian minister, at which a good understanding was reached. The president would in any event have made known his change in policy, but it was felt it would be much less embarrassing to announce it before the trouble had actually arisen and become publicly known. It is not certain, difficulties have not already arisen, as those portions of Trescott's last dispatches, not fully deciphered, are of a character to create much uneasiness; and there will be great relief here when it becomes officially known that Trescott has received and begun to act under his new instruction.

BLAINE INTERVIEWED.

The Post has an interview with ex-Secretary Blaine upon the subject of diplomatic correspondence relative to Chili and Peru.

The ex-secretary says: "The statement published, that instructions to Mr. Trescott, signed by him, had been drafted and sent to Trescott without the knowledge of the president, has absolutely no foundation in truth. Instructions were not only talked over fully with the president, but, when written, were twice read to him for criticism and change. I have the original draft in my possession, with the modifications desired by the president clearly noted. It is inconceivable that an extraordinary mission important enough to be mentioned in the annual message to congress could be allowed to leave the country without the president knowing the instructions by which its action should be governed. No friend of the president could possibly make that suggestion, and on his behalf, I repel it. The president specifically referred, in his message, to the instructions given Mr. Trescott, and, besides, what possible interest could I have myself in sending an instruction without the full knowledge of the president? I would naturally take care not to send an instruction merely to have it revoked. In addition to all other considerations, I had no desire to send Mr. Trescott on a "fool's errand."

Q. How do you account for the change of policy?

A.—That is none of my business. It is undoubtedly the right of the president, as it is of a private citizen, to change his mind. Either President Garfield or President Arthur saw every dispatch of importance that was sent, and no step was taken without the full concurrence and approval of the executive. During the late president's illness no dispatch of any special moment was sent, either to Peru or Chili. The date will show that.

The ex-secretary was asked what he meant by the expression, "A fool's errand," and he answered:

"I meant there seemed no possible need of Mr. Trescott being in Chili, if he is simply there to be a helpless witness of the utter spoliation of Peru. That could have taken place without the presence of a special envoy of the United States, who, forbidden to protest, actively appears as aiding and abetting the spoliation. What I mean by spoliation appears plainly enough from Trescott's original dispatch, published in Saturday morning's papers. He says Chili demands absolute cession of the entire Province of Tarapaca, and, besides that, twenty millions in money, payable in sixteen years, during which time Arica is to be occupied by Chili, and if the $20,000,000 is not paid, Arica is to be absolutely annexed to Chili.—Besides all this, Chili appropriates the guano deposits of the Lobas Islands. The demand of Chili is equivalent—to the—destruction of Peru, for the reason that it takes from the latter country the great body of her guano and all her nitrate bed, and thus deprives her of her sources of revenue. What Chili is taking from Peru is relatively a far greater loss to Peru than the loss of the seceding states would have been to the American Union. Far greater than that—greater, indeed, than if the Pacific coast had joined the rebellion and gone out forever. That would have taken all the cotton lands, all the sugar lands, and all the precious mineral lands from the United States, and would have destroyed our power and our very existence. Precisely that fate is to be inflicted on Peru, and Chili now permits the United States to mediate only on condition that she will promote this whole sale 'destruction of a friendly republic, a destruction as complete and as cruel as the partition of Poland.'"

"I have seen no reason to change my mind as to the wisdom of the course marked out. Time, reflection and the development of events have all the more strongly confirmed me, and I fear that one result of the change will be the utter destruction of the commercial interests of the United States on the South Pacific coast."

CANNON'S CONTEST.

The Elder Interviewed by a New York Reporter

NEW YORK, January 30.—Elder Cannon of Utah, who is in town, was interviewed by a reporter to-day. He believes that in the contest in which he is now engaged for his seat with Cambell, he will be successful, as precedent and right are on his side and that if defeated it will be by the powerful influence brought to bear against him by his opponent and the government party. There is nothing new to be considered save perhaps the latest aspect of polygamy question; and if Campbell, who only received 1357 votes to 15,168 for me is admitted it will be in the face of all precedent. I do not think congress will dare to take such an unjust step, or that the country will approve of such a course. My defense against this charge of ineligibility on account of being an alien will be ample and complete and I have nothing to add to it now. In answer to a question as to whether there was a disposition on the part of the Mormon element to resist the passage of laws suppressing polygamy he said: "No, the government will meet with no resistance on the part of the people of Utah. Such a course would be hopeless. However they may regard any law of this nation they will never resort to arms for redress. They will regard themselves as martyrs and will remain in Utah, where all their interests lie, relying on the people of the country for justice. He would not express an opinion with regard to the proposition to divide Utah and portion her among Colorado, Wyoming and Montana. He denied that the Mormons were inciting Utes and other tribes to hostility, nor was there any truth in the statement that the people were selling guns, etc.

New French Cabinet.

PARIS, January 30.—DeFreycinet has submitted to President Grevy a list of new ministers as follows:—DeFreycinet, president of the council and minister of foreign affairs; Ferry, public instruction; Goblet, interior and worship; Humbert, justice; Varroy, public works; Gen. Billot, war; Admiral Jauregilbery, marine; Tirard, commerce; Cochery, posts and telegraph. The post of minister of fine arts, created by Gambetta, is thus suffered to fall in abeyance.

Business of a Defunct Court.

—CHICAGO, January 30.—Seth Hanchett, clerk of the probate court of this county, which was recently declared illegal, has made a statement of the business done by the court during its four years of existence. It includes 4,604 cases transferred to the county court and 2,078 new cases. The value of the transferred cases settled and pending in the court is $19,184,000, the value of new cases $32,984,000.

Body Stealing in Scotland.

NEW YORK, January 30. Superintendent Walling to-day received a circular from the Scotland Yard police, advertising a reward of £3000 for the recovery of the body of the late Earl of Crawford, which was stolen from the family vault in Aberdeenshire. The English government will pay £500 and the family £2500, to any one who shall give any information leading to the apprehension of the thieves. Pardon is promised any accomplice who will give information. It is supposed the thieves came to this country.

Mining Market.

NEW YORK, January 30.—Mining stocks very active and irregular. There were immense dealings in Robinson, which declined from 3.75 to 2.05, closing at 3.15. Transactions in State Lines two and three were also large. Stock opened at 1.25, closed at 1.20, many time sales being made at the lower rates. South Pacific was active and strong. It opened at 4.00 and closed at 4.35. Horn Silver strong, opened at 16.88; closed at 17.25. Total sales 204,350 shares.

Murdered his Grandmother.

ST. LOUIS, January 30.—Russell Brown, grandson of Mrs. Davis, confessed that in company with a dissolute companion named Metlew, he killed the old lady on Saturday night, and seized her rings and took her jewelry. She was left unconscious but died during the night.

Information has just been received that McGlew was arrested in Chicago this morning, and will be brought down to-night.

CHICAGO, January 30.—Patrick McGlew, who was arrested here on a requisition from St. Louis, where he is suspected of murder, Saturday night, was a saloon keeper here four years ago, and well-known to the police.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Virginia Republicans Fighting over an Appointment.

What Arthur's Enemies are Finding Fault About.

David Davis Favors Dakota's Admission to the Union.

NOMINATED BY A CUSS.

WASHINGTON, January 30.—The Republican says: On Friday last the name of William Nichols was sent to the senate as postmaster of Norfolk, Va. This renomination of Nichols was not made by the intentional act of the president, nor was it known to the postmaster general or the first assistant. The president's attention being called to it he was greatly surprised. The nomination had been unwittingly signed by him with many others. The postmaster general and his first assistant found that a clerk in the department had prepared the nomination without any authority, and handed it in with others he had been directed to make out. The president at once directed the withdrawal of the nomination; not because he had changed his mind, but because it was not his act, but only that of either a very sharp or a very dull clerk. An investigation is to be had.

VIRGINIA FIGHT.

Senator-elect Riddleberger, Governor Cameron and a number of members of the Virginia legislature, besides other prominent readjusters, are here to-day to assist Senator Mahone in his fight against Representative Jorgensen over the Norfolk postoffice. Mahone, Cameron and Riddleberger called on the president to-day and joined in a protest against the appointment of Nichols. They urged the nomination be withdrawn and represented that to make the appointment would be injurious to the interests of the coalition party and would give encouragement to republican opponents of the coalition just now at a critical time, when the party has an internal quarrel on hand about state auditor. Mahone's friends still declare the Nichols nomination shall be withdrawn.

ARTHUR MAKING ENEMIES.

CHICAGO, January 30.—The Times' Washington special says: President Arthur pleases no one, though he has excited no great hostility except from Blaine. Perhaps senatorial influence counts for little at present and senators sharply criticise the man who went to Albany less than a year ago in behalf of the senatorial prerogative and now he ignores it. He is criticised for his late rising, and it is remarked "congress sometimes meets and adjourns before he has breakfasted," and that business is greatly delayed by his sloth. Some of his friends' appointments will bring on a fight. Extreme stalwarts accuse him of intriguing for his re-election. He won't succeed, however. Valuable as an ally, he has never been regarded as a leader. He is alienating himself from old friends and making no new ones.

SHERMAN'S FUNDING BILL.

The Sherman funding bill has no chance because, much as it is desired to ease the blow of defeat to Sherman on account of his great services, it is certain interest is now on the increase, having reached the bottom some time ago. The bill is not very economical and is a risky plan.

EDMUNDS AND THE SUPREME BENCH.

Senator Morrill expresses the opinion that Senator Edmunds would not go on the supreme bench if he had the opportunity, as he declined a place upon it once before. Many think otherwise.

DAKOTA'S ADMISSION.

It is stated with much positiveness that President Davis, of the senate, favors the admission of Dakota in the union. He holds, it is said, that the southern portion of Dakota is entitled by reason of population and other considerations to admission, and it is not a question for partisan consideration. Judge Davis' vote, combined with the republicans, would give the bill a majority in the senate, and as the republicans control the house it would appear the measure has a good prospect of becoming a law the present session.

IMPROBABLE REPORT.

CHICAGO, January 30.—The Journal's special says: The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial telegraphs a very improbable report that President Arthur will pardon Guiteau. The Journal's Washington correspondent says: There is no probability that Judge Cox will permit a new trial for Guiteau.

DAKOTA DELEGATION.

A delegation from Southeast Dakota and the Black Hills, headed by Representative Pettigrew, had an interview with the president to-day in reference to the admission and division of that territory. It is understood they also urged the removal of Governor Ordway.

MCDONALD'S ARREST.

The war department has received official information concerning the arrest of Lieutenant McDonald and scouts at Ascension, Mexico, by order of Mexican troops, from which it appears that McDonald's action in crossing the frontier was unauthorized and that he was ordered back by Col. McKenzie. Both Col. McKenzie and General Pope, commanding the department of the Missouri, says McDonald is a brave officer and he did not intentionally violate orders to cross the frontier. The chief scout of McDonald's command says he was trailing and went into Ascension to bring forage. The people all treated them well and gave them entertainment. During the night they were surrounded by Mexican troops, who insisted upon disarming the Indians. This McDonald complied with, after which the Mexicans disarmed the Americans. Next day they were taken as prisoners to Janas. They stayed two days and then were taken to Casa Grande. They were there four days, when orders came for the release of the whole party, and directing all their arms and ammunition, and supplies and animals, to be returned, and if anything was not returned it should be paid for when the party left. The Mexican officer who made the arrest at Ascension was reported under arrest.

INTEROCEANIC CANAL.

The sub committee of the house committee on commerce in charge of the several bills which have been introduced in regard to inter-oceanic canals met to-day and after consideration agreed to report favorably to the full committee Representative Gibbon's bill, which provides for the appointment of an inter-oceanic commission to determine a plan and route for the establishment of communication between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and authorizes the president to appoint commissioners, one from the navy, one from the army and one from the coast survey and geodetic survey, and two from civil life. Representative Buckner's bill to incorporate the inter oceanic ship railway company which is in the interest of the plan proposed by Capt. Eads was considered by the sub committee, and an unfavorable report agreed upon. These respective reports will be submitted to the full committee to-morrow.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

The following bills were introduced:

By Berry, proposing a constitutional amendment prohibiting state legislatures from voting on ratification of constitutional amendments except at a regular session held following the election of the more numerous branches of the state legislature. Also to regulate railroad fares. It makes it unlawful for any railroad to charge fare for transportation of passengers in excess of the following ratio: Under 100 miles, 4½ cents per mile; over 100 and under 300 4 cts, over 300 3½ cts.

By Cobb, repealing all laws granting lands to certain railway companies and states for the benefit of such companies, and declaring the right and interest of such railroad companies and states to said lands forfeited. The bill relates to a large number of railroads, including the Atlantic & Pacific, Texas Pacific and Northern Pacific, and was after a contest as to the proper reference referred to the committee on judiciary by a vote of 161 to 55. Also proposing a constitutional amendment giving retiring presidents $6,000 per annum pension, and making them cabinet officers ineligible for election to the presidency for the term following.

By Phelps, apportionment bill, fixing the number at 247.

Bills were introduced defining the powers and duties of the Mississippi river committee, authorizing the appropriation of land and material for improvement of the Mississippi river and tributaries, providing punishment for acts in hindrance of such improvement, removing duty of 25 per cent. upon newspapers, periodicals and magazines, and for the admission of Arizona and Idaho in the union.

The committee on education and labor reported back a bill to regulate and suspend immigration of Chinese laborers. It was made special order for February 7.

The consular and diplomatic appropriation bill was reported. It appropriates $1,193,530, being $12,420 less than the appropriation for last year and $116,535 less than the estimates.

A resolution calling for information as to removals and appointments in the postoffice department since March 4th was adopted.

A resolution was reported back calling on the secretary of the interior to communicate the decision of the committee of the general land office declaring the land grant made to the Northern Pacific lapsed and the text of the decision of Secretary Schurz overruling the same and restoring the grant of land to the Northern Pacific without reference of the subject to congress. Adopted.

A resolution calling for correspondence between the state department and the United States minister at St. Petersburg relative to the expulsion of American Israelites from Russia, and persecution of Jews in the Russian empire was adopted. A resolution calling on the secretary of state for a list of promotions, removals and appointments in the consular service since the fourth of March 1547 was adopted. Adjourned.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

A bill for a public building at Peoria was reported favorably.

Edmunds, from the judiciary committee, reported favorably a bill re-establishing the Alabama claims commission and for the distribution of the Geneva award. Referred.

Discussion of the Sherman funding bill was resumed. Pugh's proposed amendments were accepted by Vest as a modification of his proposition.

The question was upon an amendment offered by Hawley, allowing banks to return their bonds deposited for circulation in amounts not exceeding five millions per month and only upon thirty days notice.

Discussion was confined to the merits of the fourth section, act 3, which the amendment of Vest repealed, and section 5,159 and 5160 of the revised statutes, which it re-enacts. The first-mentioned allows any national bank to deposit United States notes to the amount of the bonds it seeks to withdraw and thereupon withdraw its bonds and reduce its circulation and requires it to have $50,000 instead of a third of its capital on deposit with the treasury, irrespective of the amount of its capital. The other sections revive the old law requiring one-third of the capital of a bank to be held by the treasury in United States bonds, prohibiting the deposit of greenbacks in lieu of bonds and further requiring a bank seeking to reduce its circulation to deposit its own notes, the latter being insisted on in discussion as preventing a combination of banks from contracting the currency arbitrarily and without notice.

Before action was reached Hawley got the floor and the senate went into executive session and adjourned.

ATTEMPT AT FORGERY.

This is What Corkhill will Prove to the Court.

As to the Newspaper Lately Introduced in Evidence.

Friday Fixed for Argument for a New Trial.

SIGNATURES OF THE JURY.

WASHINGTON, January 30.—In the criminal court District Attorney Corkhill applied to the court to fix a day for hearing arguments upon the motion for a new trial in the case of the United States against C. J. Guiteau stating he was willing to-morrow should be assigned. Scoville called the attention of the court to the fact that one of the affidavits in support of the motion had annexed to it a copy of the Evening Critic, and that during the progress of the trial the paper was read by us to the jury. It bore on the margin what purported to be the signatures of four jurors. The jurors deny that they saw any newspapers or wrote their names on paper during the time they were impaneled. This raised the issue of a fact which was very important to be determined. It was not a matter that could be determined on ex-parte affidavits. The jury admitted that during time they were impaneled they gave their autographs to various persons and he thought it might be important that he should have an opportunity to cross-examine the men in that connection to determine whether the signatures upon the newspaper were genuine. The full names of two of the jurors were on the paper.

District attorney—"And one of them was spelled wrong."

Scoville said: "All these things show the propriety of something more than ex-parte affidavits in this matter. I ask that the jurors be produced in court on the count, appoint a commission to take depositions; and that I be allowed to produce such further testimony as I think proper as to the genuineness of the handwriting and the argument on a new trial."

He thought he could be ready by the latter part of the week, as all questions he cared about taking up were as to this newspaper, and in respect to newly-discovered evidence. The court therefore fixed Friday for the argument. The district attorney said he did not intend the jury should be put on trial. This newspaper was suspicious on its face. The gentleman who had filed the affidavit and who had purloined the paper had already been bound over for forgery in the district court. He (the district attorney) would show in the court this was a clever attempt at forgery. He would not agree that the jury, who had done their duty so faithfully, should be put upon trial; and the oath of such a man as that placed against theirs.

The court stated he could only ask the parties making affidavits and would do so.

Scoville said that when forging was alleged it was a serious matter.

The court suggested the jury be present Friday; and the matter went over.

A correspondent interviewed the Guiteau jurors and obtained indisputable proof that they never had a paper while on the jury; that none of them wrote their names, that only once was a piece of newspaper found in their room and that it was delivered to the bailiff; that they were more carefully guarded and observed than prisoners; that one whose name was found on the paper spoken of was misspelled; that the name of another was written in German, a thing he never did unless by special request. The name of another appeared who had been unable to handle a pen on account of nervous affliction. There was no ink in the room, whereas the writing on the paper was in ink. J. W. Guiteau called on all the jurors and got their names in an autograph album and asked the leading questions whereon to found his affidavit.

MUCH RESEMBLANCE.

John W. Guiteau says the names on the margin of the newspaper so much resemble those of the jurors in his album as to make anybody think they are genuine. He believes they are.

JURY INDIGNANT.

The jury indignantly deny that they read newspapers, as alleged in Scoville's motion for a new trial.

GUITEAU'S DAY OVER.

People feel that Guiteau has had his "day in court," and further lenity is absurd and mischievous, and that whatever the merits of the appeal, and lawyers do not think them substantial, it is pretty safe to predict that Guiteau will not get off now the verdict is rendered, on any technicality.

FUNDS NEEDED.

In address to-day to the American people Guiteau's counsel, Scoville, made an appeal for funds to sustain the motion for a new trial before the court in banc. At least $2,000 is needed.

Indian Education.

CHEYENNE, January 30. Charles Hatton, agent at Fort Washakie, Wyoming, with five Arapahoe chiefs, Black Coat, Sharp Nose, Little Wolf, Iron and White House, passed through to-day on their way to Carlisle, Pa., where thirteen Arapahoe children are at school. The chiefs will then go to Washington for a big talk with the Great Father. The fact of their children being at school greatly pleases the chiefs and is a splendid preventative of an Indian war. The children have only been at school a short time over a year, and have written letters to their parents in English which were translated to the chiefs. Other Indians wish to send their children to be educated.

Guarding the Czar.

MOSCOW, Jan. 30.—The scheme of the governor general for assuring the safety of the imperial cortege to Moscow for the coronation ceremonies proposes that the emperor shall come to Moscow by carriage road instead of railway, and crowds in the streets shall be separated from the procession by trenches, barriers and lines of troops.

Stock Depressed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The Post says a private cable states "Union General" of Paris has stopped payment and the bank of Belgium has advanced the rate of discount from 7 to 9 per cent. This together with the belief in some quarters that gold exports are imminent, has depressed the stock market and sent prices downward.

Panic in London.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The discount market is perfectly demoralized, and business is almost at a stand still. The News has a Paris dispatch reporting that the "Union General" has suspended payment.

Praying Against Polygamy.

CHICAGO, January 30.—Ministers are paying a great deal of attention to Mormonism. There were many sermons about it yesterday and a ministers' meeting to-day considered it. Rev. F. A. Noble, of the Union Park church has the credit among his brethren of having been of the first to bring it into pulpit discussion and with inaugurating the pulpit crusade against it.

A CLEVER TRICK.

The Treasury Department Heard from in Reference to the Split One Dollar Bill.

It will be remembered that some two months ago the GAZETTE made notice of the presentation at the First National bank of the back half of a split one dollar bill. It was at the same time ascertained that the other half of the bill had been accepted by Messrs. Conant & Tredinga in payment for groceries sold, they at the time not detecting that it had been split. Mr. J. F. Humphrey, the cashier of the First National became the possessor of the two parts. Thinking the matter one of vital importance to the treasury department he enclosed the bill in a letter and forwarded it to the first comptroller of the treasury with whom he was personally acquainted. He yesterday received the following in response to his letter:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
First Comptroller's Office,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 24, 1882.

J. F. HUMPHREY, Cashier First National Bank, Colorado Springs.

DEAR SIR: Your letter of the 18th inst. is received with a one dollar split U. S. note No. 33,254,000. I have transmitted the note and your letter to the secretary of the treasury calling his attention to the subject and suggesting that a one dollar bill be transmitted to you in lieu of this. The subject of your letter presents a matter of considerable importance which I have no doubt will receive the careful consideration of the secretary of the treasury with a view to seeing whether paper cannot be procured which cannot thus be split.

Very Respectfully,
WM. LAWRENCE.

It would appear from the contents of the above letter that this is the first instance of the kind that has been brought to the attention of the department. The one dollar bill referred to was printed on fiber paper as are also the bills of larger denomination, and it stands to reason that a one hundred or a five hundred dollar note could be split as easily as a one. As far as we can learn no other effort has been made in this city to pass any bills similarly tampered with. In all probability the person who split the bill found that the experiment was not a feasible one and abandoned any further attempt at this method of bettering his financial condition.

ANOTHER AFFLICTED ONE.

Badly Burned in a Dug-Out at Jimmy's Camp.

Yesterday morning another man, by the name of John Kelley, without money and without friends, appealed to City Officer Beall for aid. He was suffering from a severely burned back, and was in such a condition as to be unable to support himself by work. His case was brought to the attention of Mayor France, who notified City Physician Kimball to care for him. According to the man's story he, in company with two other men, were sleeping in an old dug-out on the line of the Denver & New Orleans road near Jimmy's Camp. They had been left there by one of the contractors to finish up a little grading which had been left undone.

During one of the cold nights last week they built a large fire in the dug-out just before going to bed. The roof of the dug-out was covered with pine boughs which took fire some time during the night and before the sleepers awakened they were surrounded by flames. Kelley's companions succeeded in getting out without receiving any serious injuries, but he was badly burned about the back and shoulders. They lost all their clothing and blankets. The other two men continued with their work but Kelley was brought to this city for medical treatment. He thinks that he will be able in a few days to do some light work and will try to repay the city for what it has done for him.

The house committee on banking and currency stand nine to two in favor of the national banking system.

The San Juan Prospector has discarded its patent inside and sets up the entire paper now. It is better in everything.

As Senator Davis of Illinois favors the admission of Dakota, the bill for its admission is likely to become a law. This will give two more republican senators.

The appointment of a new man for governor of Arizona is a good idea. No man could have been appointed from Arizona without breaking many hearts. Arizona has proportionately more politicians and office seekers than Colorado.

The death of Dr Henry W Bellows will be heard with general sorrow. He was born in 1814 and was therefore 68 years of age. He became pastor of a church in New York city in 1838 and has been there ever since. During the war he took an active interest in the Sanitary commission of which he was president. He was a man of generous instinct, and took an active part in forwarding all objects that affected the public weal. As a theologian he was conservative and though a Unitarian was positive in his beliefs. His preaching was very popular and effective. Though a ripe scholar and finished writer, his chief power lay in the broad humanity, and noble sentiments that pervaded his sermons.

The Leadville Chronicle very foolishly argues that Colorado should have two representatives. We have not the slightest ground for demanding more than one. The ratio is now one representative to every 135,000 of population, and hence the Chronicle argues that as the last census showed a population of 195,000, or nearly one and one half times 135 000 we should have two representatives. But the proportion is all wrong. Congress is likely to fix a ratio of about one representative to every 160,000 of population and a population of 240,000 would at least be required to have two representatives with any show of justice. We fall far short of this. It should be remembered also that we have the same representation in the United States senate as New York. This gives us all the power and influence we should ask for. We had for two years a representative in congress when our population did not entitle us to one. The suggestion that we should steal the extra representation from the south is unworthy of the state. We [illegible] only ask for what in justice belongs [illegible]

FIXING PASSENGER RATES

The bill introduced into congress yesterday for fixing passenger rates was almost as impracticable a piece of legislation as has been suggested to congress. In its maximum rate is established for riding one, two or three hundred miles. The maximum rate for a three hundred mile ride is 3½ cents per mile. This is a very large price east but may be a very small price to pay in the west. The west does not always wait for the population to be large before it has a railroad. The railroad almost invariably precedes the population and thus greatly hastens the development of the country.—The Denver & Rio Grande road was built from Denver to El Moro, a distance of 206 miles, with only what might be called two villages on the road. Had this law been in operation then, the Denver and Rio Grande road could not have been built because such a rate would not have paid its fixed charges and operating expenses, and bankruptcy would have been the result. There has probably not been a road built west of the Missouri which for many years could have afforded to have carried passengers at the rate of three and one-half cents a mile. It is plain therefore to see that the practical effect of this bill would be to retard railroad development in the new west. This would be very embarrassing to the settlers who are expecting the railroad to hasten the development of the country. The settler would prefer to pay six and eight cents fare a mile rather than not have the railroad. If they are willing to do this a law of congress should not deny them the privilege.

The whole question of fixing rates is complicated and impracticable because the population, cost of building a road, and cost of operating a road are such varying quantities. In a distance of 500 miles the New York Central may have a population on its line of 1,000,000. The same distance on the A T & S F when originally built did not have hardly 10,000 people. If the rate for the A T & S F was fixed at [illegible] cents a mile the rate on the New York Central would be proportionately high at [illegible] cent a mile. Again there is a vast difference in the cost of building a line. In our mountains it costs two and three times as much to build a railroad as it does on the plains. If both of these roads carry the same number of passengers, it is evident that the mountain road must charge a good deal heavier rates. There is also the same difference in operating expenses. A road with 200 feet grades, over mountain passes, which it is difficult to keep open in winter because of snow, must be more expensive to operate than a road on the level plains where nature is kind and mild. It is a business proportion that carries its own assent when we say that all other things being equal, the mountain road must receive the higher passenger rates. These factors such as population, cost of operating and cost of building vary so much that no maximum rate could be fixed which would in the slightest degree be just for two such roads as the New York Central road, and the Denver & Rio Grande road.—If a just rate were fixed for the latter it would be so ridiculously high as to make the legislation good for nothing for all eastern roads. So far as the eastern roads were concerned the law would virtually say, you can not charge for fares twice or three times as much as you are now voluntarily charging and can get. The law could only reach a few roads operating in a sparsely settled country built at a large cost, and operated at a large expense. Hence we say that such a law is unjust, for it affects only a few roads, though intended to affect all.

OPENING THE UTE RESERVATION

Very many of our readers are interested in mines in the Ute reservation near Ruby. A Mr Brown of the Gunnison has received a letter from Senator Hill on the subject of the opening of the reservation. This letter is as follows.

WASHINGTON, Jan 11 1882

Hon Ira Brown Sir —

I received a copy of the resolutions adopted at a mass meeting of citizens of Irwin and attested by yourself as clerk. Some time before the receipt of this document I introduced a bill providing for the opening of the reservation to settlement. This bill contains a clause for the protection of persons who have in good faith settled upon and occupied lands on the borders of the reservation before the boundary was definitely determined. I have carefully considered this bill, and think that it will accomplish the purpose which we all have in view. I enclose a copy of the bill which I intend to push through with as little delay as possible. The copy of the resolutions which you sent me will be useful before the committee and will be incorporated in the report which will be made by the committee upon the bill. The original act providing for the purchase of the Ute reservation has accomplished more than its most ardent friends expected. Within less than a year and a half from the passage of that act not one of the Uncompahgre or White River Utes was left upon the reservation and not one of them owned or claimed to own a foot of its lands. They were removed from the state under the operation of that act without the cost of a dollar to the state or the loss of a life. The bill met with the most bitter opposition in quarters where I thought it should have received friendly aid. It was predicted that it would be a failure, that it would lead to war and bloodshed and in fact, everything that human ingenuity could invent was resorted to to intimidate or to deter senators and members of congress from voting for the bill. But little is left to do now to complete the work. The lands of the reservation must be made public lands to be disposed of in the usual way and the small band of Southern Utes must be removed to the Uintah reservation in Utah. I have introduced bills for both these purposes and as soon as I can get a report upon these bills from the secretary of the interior they will be pushed rapidly to a vote. I have no fear about passing them if they receive favorable consideration by the secretary. I trust that before spring all questions pertaining to the opening of the Ute reservation to the public will be finally disposed of.

Yours truly

N P HILL

Senator Hill very properly refers to the beneficent workings of the bill he secured the passage of in 1880. At that time he was bitterly attacked by some of the newspapers and some politicians as an Indian sympathizer. They demanded the passage of Senator Teller's bill. Had the latter bill been passed there would have been no legislation. This was shown by the fact that an effort was made to attach several provisions of Senator Teller's bill to Senator Hill's bill and these amendments received only two or three votes each. The White River Utes and Uncompahgre Utes would have been still in the state. What the people of the state desired was the removal of the Utes as speedily as possible. Senator Hill's bill accomplished this, and this is the best and most conclusive testimony of the wisdom and practicability of his bill.

The Jews in Warsaw

A letter published by the Journal de Geneve from a private correspondent at Warsaw gives some particulars concerning the disturbances which recently occurred there and the present condition of the Jewish population of the ancient capital of Poland. After remarking on the rumor which ascribed to a Jew the false alarm of fire in a Catholic church on Christmas day, whereby so many people lost their lives the writer goes on to explain why the Jews are so much detested in Poland and Russia.

They are all traders, none labor with their hands, and they are so extensively engaged in commerce and money lending that nobody can avoid coming in contact with them, while even their enemies are compelled to become their debtors. Industrious, enterprising and persevering, they have the defects of these qualities. They are eager after gain, exacting and pitiless with their debtors. They associate exclusively with each other—probably because others refuse to associate with them. They succeed and prosper where Christians fail and while their competitors spend and grow poor, they save and become rich. For these reasons the Jews are at once execrated, envied and despised, and reviled as the "accursed race." Their very meekness and forbearance kindle the anger instead of assuaging the wrath of their enemies. These being the normal relations of Christian and Jew in Warsaw it is easy to imagine the rage and excitement of the Christian population of the city when people were told that one of the hated race was the author of the catastrophe in which so many Christian victims had lost their lives. Bands were forthwith organized for the sack and pillage of the many shops belonging to the Jews who number in all 100,000 souls—a fourth of the entire population of Warsaw. Those who were found in the streets, being easy recognizable by the peculiar costume which the law compels them to wear were set upon, insulted and cruelly beaten, and in many instances left bleeding where they fell. The Jew market people were met as they entered the town, torn from their carts and hunted through the town like mad dogs. Their horses were taken from their carts and their goods thrown into the gutter. The victims made no attempt at resistance. Most of them took refuge in the upper stories of their houses or hid themselves with their wives and children in cellars. Many imitating the Catholic, who feared to be mistaken for Jews placed crosses on their doors, and exposed the images of saints in their windows. The disorders continued two days and two nights. The police and the troops made no effort to check them. When the police were appealed to they would reply with a shrug of the shoulders and a smile "they are only Jews." The bulk of the population of the city took no active part in these outrages, they merely smiled and looked on. The actual rioters consisted for the most part of vagabonds malefactors and professional thieves. In the end calmness was restored not by the action of the authorities who literally stood by with folded arms but because the Jews had all fled or hidden themselves and every shop in the place belonging to a Jew had been gutted and plundered. Many thousands of them besides being grievously maltreated have been stripped of everything they possessed, and know not where to turn for bread.

A Cure for Weak Eyes

London Paper

Mr Dana was born in 1810, at Cambridge in Massachusetts and gave early evidences of the intellectual and literary aptitudes which he received from nature's hand. When he was but a boy of eighteen he found that his devotion to study at Harvard University had brought on a weakness of the eyes which, in his own words, "he resolved to cure, if possible, by an entire change of life, and by a long absence from books, together with plenty of hard work, plain food and open air." With this purpose in view, he engaged himself as a common sailor on board the brig Pilgrim, of Boston, which was about to make a trip round Cape Horn to the western coast of North America. To this we owe "Two Years Before the Mast," one of the most graphic and interesting books that ever came from an American pen. It is not generally known that in early life Mr Gladstone suffered, like Mr Dana, from a weakness of the eyes which threatened very serious consequences, and which the English prime minister happily cured by confining himself voluntarily for six months within the precincts of a darkened room. In both cases the remedy was successful.

Never Smiles

Progress

The English waiter never smiles, or if he does nobody ever catches him at it. While on the City of Rome, Rufus Hatch wagered ten dollars that he would bring a smile to the face of the waiter at his table before the steamer sighted the Irish coast. He lost. Between Queenstown and Liverpool he offered the waiter two sovereigns if he would shave off his chin whiskers. There was no indication that the man gave the offer the slightest consideration, yet, when the next meal was served, he appeared with mutton chop whiskers and pocketed his two sovereigns, saying "Thank you, sir," with a face on as grave as an owl.

Rights of Subscribers

Mr Frank Hatton, assistant postmaster general having been a newspaper man, knows how it is himself. He therefore announces that a postmaster will give cause for removal if he delivers subscriber's newspaper to a non-subscriber allowing him to read it and puts it back into the box. This will deprive the man who goes for the mail and sits on the sugar barrel to sponge the reading of his neighbor's newspaper of half of his winter's amusement.

Safety Rules in Berlin Theatres

German Correspondence of the Philadelphia Bulletin

It is a noteworthy fact that some ten days before the Vienna disaster the authorities here instituted very stringent rules for the regulation of theatres, and since that terrible example of stupidity and carelessness they have been supplemented with some still more exacting. New exits have been opened in all places of amusement in different parts of the houses and plainly marked "Noth Ausgang" (A danger exit) oil lamps are kept burning from before the doors are opened until after the performance is over, and are marked "danger lamps." The police agents visit all these places before opening and see that all orders are obeyed, and patrol the building during the time the audience is assembled.

Webster's Relatives

The relatives of Daniel Webster, now living in Boston are the grandchildren of the Hon Israel W Kelley whose father, Moses Kelley, married Lydia Webster, the niece of Ebenezer Webster. Israel W Kelley, a correspondent of the Boston Herald says, was the friend and companion of Webster's early years. He married Rebecca Fletcher, of Hopkinton, Mr Webster marrying Grace Fletcher the younger sister of Rebecca, at Judge Kelley's house, in Salisbury. The parents of Grace did not approve the marriage, contending she might as well throw herself away upon a common farmer as wed a man, poor, impractical and—with a head buried in books. Young Daniel first met Grace Fletcher at the little church in Salisbury, to which she came one Sabbath morning on horseback, habited in black velvet, with a close-fitting bodice and, as he often afterward described her, "looking like an angel."

THE COMING BONANZA

Prof. Kerr's Report on the Property of the Colorado and New Mexico Mining and Smelting Company

Below we publish an interesting report by Prof J H Kerr on a mineral property near Socorro, New Mexico The office of this company is at Colorado Springs and the stock is owned principally by some of the leading business men of our city

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Jan 15 1882
To the Directors of The C & N M M & S Co

At your request I have visited your mining property in Socorro county New Mexico and take pleasure in making the following statement in regard to the same

Socorro on the Rio Grande 150 miles south of Santa Fe and at which you have one of your offices, is in the centre of a mineral field which is one of the most attractive and promises to be one of the most remunerative in America

Twenty five miles west of this are the Magdalenas on the west side of which your entire property is beautifully situated

These mountains rise scarcely 1 500 feet above the plains and not over 7 500 feet above tide water They have long been noted for their fissures, lodes and mineral contacts but the property has been held by those having little means and magnificent ideas of its fabulous value, in consequence of which the developments have been of the rudest character and the property has been practically out of the market

Thousands of tons of the ore have already been reduced at a profit by the old sec saw processes of the Mexicans All along the foot of the Magdalenas may be seen the relics of the strange devices called mills If such developments and such means for reducing ores gave a profit to the miner judicious development and modern machinery must certainly afford very handsome returns

On account of a want of crushing machinery only the softer ores have been handled the greater part of which was sand carbonate similar to that of Leadville Most of the ore reduced was low grade, and the slag still remaining indicates a great waste of what little precious metal there was in the ore The grade of the ore, however was fully equal to what one would expect from the position of the lode Developments here, when made show conclusively that depth in most cases is necessary to the securing of high grade ore It is true that there are a few claims which give high grade ore near the surface but these ores being hard and refractory have heretofore been of no repute and consequently few developments of any kind have been made on such claims

In the midst of the best Magdalena claims are those of the Colorado and New Mexico Mining and Smelting company In fact there is no better property on the Magdalenas than that belonging to this company

The Juanita South Imperial South Relampago North and Champion South are on a lode that may be traced for miles and has a width of nearly 80 feet This vein being the most accessible as well as carrying the ores adapted to the cold processes has received the most attention A number of the company's claims are parallel veins further up the mountains None of these veins are as wide as the one above referred to but the developments show better mineral and guarantee a more profitable return for the outlay

In conclusion allow me to say that you have a splendid property, remarkably accessible to wood, water fluxes and railroad conveniences and nothing but downright inactivity and mismanagement can prevent it from becoming one of the most remunerative properties in New Mexico

Respectfully J H KERR

OMAHA & DENVER SHORT LINE

Its Convenience to Colorado Business Men

Commencing Sunday, November 6, 1881, the Union Pacific company will run a fast Omaha express through between Denver and Omaha daily, over the recently constructed Julesburg cut-off

Leaving Denver (breakfast)	8 00 a m
Arrive at Sterling (dinner)	1 20 p m
Arrive at North Platte	7 30 p m
Arrive at Omaha	7 30 a. m
Arrive at Council Bluffs (breakfast)	8 00 a. m
Arrive at Chicago (? b'. ago time)	6 30 a. m

Time, Denver to Omaha, twenty three and one-half hours, time, Denver to Chicago, forty six hours

This new route is 156 miles shorter than any rival, six hours the quickest to Omaha, seven to fifteen hours the quickest to Chicago St. Louis and all points east, and it runs the finest trains ever built constructed by the Pullman company expressly for this line. They embody every feature of safety, comfort, convenience and luxury yet attained in railway equipment. It is the only through line possessing a water grade across the plains (averaging less than ten feet to the mile) It is the most picturesque route, has the best dining stations, the heaviest steel rails, best iron bridges and most careful ballasting

Passengers from Leadville, Gunnison, San Juan and all points in southern Colorado make close connection in the Union depot, Denver, and arrive in Chicago and all eastern cities so as to have a full day for business on the day of arrival, practically saving from twelve to twenty four hours, and avoiding all night changes

Meantime the old Kansas Pacific route, now Kansas division Union Pacific railway, to Kansas City and all points east and southeast and the Pioneer Union Pacific route from Denver, via Cheyenne, to Omaha and the east and northeast, maintain their usual standard of excellence Tickets via Cheyenne are good over the new route, or vice versa 1-28 tf

General Thomas, Prof Kerr, Rev G T Le Boutillier and Paul Beckwith departed for various points in the south, a part of the state on the morning express yesterday

Alderman Wilson who has been on a hunting expedition in the southern part of the county has returned to his home. He reports that game is not as plentiful as in years past

According to the Republic "carrots and gooseberries was the subject under discussion at the last meeting of the horticultural society Who said anything about carrots?

Mr Maurice Lee, a practical cutter, late of New York, has accepted a position with Charles Stearns. Mr Lee is well known by many in this city who will be well pleased to see him back again

The tramp who had his foot so badly frozen while sleeping in a freight car on the Divide, was on Sunday furnished transportation to Denver, where he has friends and can have careful attention

The W C T U will meet this afternoon in the rooms of the Y M C A, at three o'clock Hereafter the meetings will be held regularly in the same place on the first and third Tuesdays of each month

Sergeant O'Keeffe has been interviewed by a Washington reporter as to the best disposition of Guiteau's body. He thinks the bones can be whittled up into watch charms and sold at a figure sufficient to pay the national debt

William Stewart, one of the best known horsemen in the country, is making his head quarters at Wilbur & Newton's stable The owners of good horses will now have an opportunity to have promising young horses well broken and developed

Messrs Langrishe & Pierce yesterday telegraphed to Manager Welch asking whether they could have the opera house on Wednesday and Thursday nights for "Brittle Silver" They were told that they could, but nothing further has been heard from them

Mr Richard N Loomis, a young gentleman well and favorably known in Colorado Springs and a member of the stock growing firm of Messrs Loomis & Gilpin, died on his ranch at Kettle Creek yesterday of pneumonia The remains were embalmed by Messrs Hallett & Baker and will be sent east for interment to-day

Mr Channing Sweet will at once begin the erection of a two-story brick block on the vacant lots between the new postoffice and O'Brien's store The building will be divided into three stores, one of twenty feet in width and the other two fifteen feet each Plate glass fronts will be placed in them The second story will be divided into offices and sleeping apartments

Mayor France yesterday ordered a number of cooking utensils purchased for the use of the vagrants who appeal to the city for food They will be provided with groceries and meats and compelled to cook for themselves This will be a great saving to the city as heretofore they have been compelled to procure meals at some of the restaurants or hotels at a cost of about 75 cents per day

On Friday evening next an entertainment consisting of music, readings and pantomimes will be given in the Presbyterian church for the benefit of the Sunday school. Prof. A C. Pierson assisted by Messrs White and Loeder, Miss Frost and the Glee club, will have charge of the music, which is a sufficient guarantee that the programme will be an interesting one The pantomime, a very amusing one, entitled "The Courtship of Mary Jane" will be under the direction of Miss Alice Stewart We will to-morrow publish a full programme of the entertainment

It is with regret that we notice that the walls of the new postoffice are already being defaced with advertisements and it will not be one month before the room will look as dingy and dismal as the old quarters There is no postoffice in the country where this practice is in vogue unless it is in some backwoods town or corner grocery where one building answers the purpose of grog shop, postoffice and store combined Why not post notices in conspicuous places in the office strictly prohibiting the hanging or posting of anything whatever on the walls If the Colorado Springs merchants wish to advertise their business let them do it through legitimate mediums and not resort to the insignificant method of placing a five penny placard on the walls of the postoffice Now is the time to stop it if it is to be stopped at all
